Emergency Relief Completed, Red Cross Ready To Take Up Rehabilitation

WASHINGTON, June 18.—With emergency relief accomplished, the American Red Cross is well started on its long task of rehabilitating families impoverished by the Pueblo flood, it was said today at national headquarters.

"An impression seems to have been created by a report to the war department that Pueblo's needs have been fully met," said Dr. Livingston Parand, chairman of the central committee of the Red Cross.

"This is true only in regard to emergency distress. There never has been a serious food problem, and the flood victims have been provided temporarily with shelter. The big task of the Red Cross, therefore, is the rehabilitation of families who have lost their homes. Its accomplishments involved the erection of small homes and the provision of essential furnishings. Our executives on the scene, working with the citizens' committee estimate the cost of this imperative relief at $500,000, which can only be debtayed through the generosity of the American people."

PARIS, June 18.—The quickest way to prevent the impending war

No decision was reached, but after

Opposing Forces Prepare For Hot Battle When Freling-

RATES ARE AFFECTED

General Railroad Legislation May Be Brought Into Consideration Of Bills

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Senate factions today prepared for another battle next week over the Freling-huysen coal bills.

Reports that certain senate elements planned to use the measure which would provide reduced seasonal rates on coal as a vehicle for many fundamental transportation amendments, including repeal of the so-called railroad rate guarantee, caused opposing forces to prepare for battle.
Members of the unofficial agricultural bloc of senators were said to be behind the amendment program.

Besides pressing a proposal for repeal of the rate guarantee, it was said, other amendments would strike at the interstate commerce commission's power to regulate state rates.
Another amendment reported in prospect is for reduction of freight rates.

Reports of probable precipitation of general railroad legislation into consideration of the Frelinghuysen program led opponents to consider obstructive measures.

"If you could only be on the ground for 30 minutes we would convince you that our statements are not overdrawn."

this communication, together with any comments you care to make, the same publicity that you gave your published interview."

Secretary Of Labor Says Mc-

Faith In Its Future

NILES, O., June 18.—The nation's president and a martyred president, both Ohio native sons, W. G. Harding and William McKinley, were showered with praise today at the unveiling of a bronze bust of the former in the memorial of the latter.

While Vice President Coolidge, Secretary of Labor Davis, Governor Davis, of Ohio, and Congressman J. G.
Cooper extolled the lives of the living and the dead presidents, from the shadows of the white marble building, the gigantic statue of the martyr gazed solemnly and majestically on the large throng.

McKinley set before the country not only an example of political wisdom, declared the secretary of labor.
He gave it an example of moral fiber; he touched the fainting moral strata of the people; he put the fire of his own will to theirs and they laughed at their foolish fears and went forward again with a new vim, and prospered.

"Now again we have before us a leader with the same pure faith, the same high confidence in the strength and purpose of our people. Already the hopeful, helpful, reassuring words of President Harding have had a quickening effect. President Harding has shown the good will of McKinley, the patience and forbearance of Lincoln, and the drive of Roosevelt."

After Vice President Coolidge's address, Mrs. J. D. Waddell, wife of the Niles chamber of commerce, which made arrangements for the ceremonies, pulled the cord which unfurled the large flag that had covered the Harding bust. As the flag parted, revealing the face of the president in bronze, the crowd gave a prolonged cheer, and rising, sang the national anthem.

"There are in this country," declared Vice President Coolidge, "as in every other, two contending forces, which, reduced to their lowest terms, represent reaction on one hand and revolution on the other. It is not unfair to characterize them both as radical. President Harding leans neither to the reaction line nor to the revolutionary line. He holds to the rational line."
